

Our Relationships – Kavod Va-Chesed

We turn to our community to challenge the isolation of our everyday lives and to express our care for each other. Together we celebrate our joys and share the burden of our sorrows. We respect each other. Our views do not always converge, and, in other contexts might set us apart. However, because we undertake to be a holy community, we foster a culture of honest discussion, honorable disagreement, and lashon tov, appropriate speech and reasoned discourse.
